Question

Portable luminaires for children: there are different opinions around the world on what is a luminaire for children.

1. In the figures you can see the product designed as “portable luminaire for children”, but provided with a fixing mean (to the table) and with a mounting instruction clearly indicating the fixation method. Could this product be regarded as a "fixed general purpose luminaire"?
2. Is it acceptable for a product designed as a “portable luminaire for children” the marking (on packing and/or on the luminaire), “This is not a luminaire for children”?

Decision

1. – No.
2. – No.

Explanatory notes

This is confirmed by Lumex where it was found that marking of this kind are regarded as misuse of the marking.
